Arthur Miller's "The Crucible"

Salem, Massachusetts, 1692. A small group of English Puritans have established a religious outpost in the New World. They are governed by the belief that all they say and do is controlled by the teachings of God. When a group of girls and a family servant are discovered dancing in the woods, casting spells, the repercussions are dramatic and life-changing. Accusations fly. Smouldering hatred and vengeance takes hold. What will it take to keep this community together?

Arthur Miller's classic drama written to expose the purge of Communists from America in the 1950s has themes as topical today as when written. BCP's production opens at The Mill Arts Centre, Spiceball Pk Rd, Banbury, OX16 5QE on 2 November 2016 and runs until 5 November 2016. Curtain up 7.45pm.
